

WASHINGTON STATE CRT ANTITRUST SETTLEMENT CLAIM FORM

Complete this Claim Form to be eligible to receive payment from settlements totaling over $39 million. Washington consumers (individuals and businesses) that purchased televisions or computer monitors containing a Cathode Ray Tube (“CRT”) from a retailer between March 1, 1995 and November 25, 2007 are eligible to receive a payment from the settlement funds.

A CRT is a vacuum tube that was used to display images in televisions and computer monitors. Before LCD, Plasma, and LED display technologies became popular, CRTs were the main technology used in these devices.

You must answer the Eligibility Questions below, by checking the boxes, to determine if you may submit a claim. The amount you could expect to receive will vary depending on the product(s) purchased, up to a maximum of $20 per CRT computer monitor and $6 per CRT television. However, your recovery could be a smaller amount than the maximum because there is a limited amount of money in the Settlement Fund. The amount paid per product and the number of claims allowed per consumer will depend on the number of claims submitted.

For more information, please reference the CRTs Frequently Asked Questions at www.crtsettlement.atg.wa.gov, email info@wacrtsettlement.com or call 1-800-332-9084.

Section 1: Eligibility Questions

1. Did you or your business buy one or more television or computer monitor containing a CRT between March 1, 1995 and November 25, 2007?

Yes No

- A. Did you reside in the state of Washington when you made the purchase(s) referenced in Question 1? For businesses, were your headquarters in Washington when you made the purchase(s) referenced in Question 1?

Yes No

If you do not currently reside in Washington, please provide your Washington address during the time period when you made the purchase(s) referenced above. Note: If you lived at more than one address during the relevant time period, you may provide only one address.

- B. Did you or your business purchase the product(s) referenced in Question 1 for your or your business’s own use and not for resale?

Yes No

- C. Did you or your business purchase the product(s) referenced in Question 1 from a retailer or someone other than the following CRT manufacturers: Philips, Chunghwa, Panasonic, Hitachi, LG, Samsung, or Toshiba?

Yes No

For example, if you purchased one of these products (regardless of the brand) from a retailer like Best Buy or a computer manufacturer like Dell or Apple, your answer should be “Yes.” Similarly, if you bought a Panasonic-branded television or a Samsung-branded laptop computer from Best Buy, your answer is still “Yes.” However, if, for example, your only purchase was a television or computer monitor bought directly from Samsung or Toshiba, your answer should be “No.”

You or your business may submit a claim only if you answered “Yes” to Questions 1, 1.A, 1.B, and 1.C. Claims must be filed by the claimant, and not by a third-party, with payments to go directly to the claimant.
